“ I would like to give my sincere condolences to the family and friends of Catherine Spaulding. I did not know her personally, but I am sure that she was dearly loved and certainly will be missed. The loss of a loved one in death can be most distressing. However, please know that God takes note of what you feel and "is near to the brokenhearted". (Psalm 34:18) God has promised that soon, no one will lose a loved one in death or have to go through the pain and tears that so often accompany such a time. (Revelation 21:4) We can look forward to enjoying life again with our dear loved ones who have passed away in death. (John 5:28, 29) I hope that these thoughts will provide a measure of comfort in this time of sadness.
