

Duchess of Robarts

December 1, 2022

She wandered into our lives one cold dark rainy night, coaxed out of the bushes with food, and brought inside to get warm and dry. She was her own cat and lived life on her terms. We quickly realized she was not an inside cat and only tolerated being indoors through our Florida storms. She was a special cat and communicated with us her wants daily. She was the boss. She had a special relationship with each of us and we all loved her dearly. So many times, families would share that she was a comfort to them at just the right time. She somehow knew those that needed her and was able to offer them comfort in her own special way. She even had the postman on her schedule and would often be found waiting on the porch for him for a few head scratches. She was a fighter and gave it her all fighting the illness that ultimately took her life. She went peacefully in the arms of those that loved and cared for her. She was one of a kind and never will there be another cat like her. She left her mark with those tiny paws of hers and will never be forgotten.

“ I work in the office across the street and remember looking out one day and seeing her on the awning for the chapel, on the part close to where it connects to the building. I think she was taking a quick little nap. :)

It was funny to see her sitting next to the door and greeting when the UPS driver, or sometimes when other folks approached the door.

*Thank you for giving her a good life while you could. <3

“ I never got to meet the Duchess of Robarts, but my heart-felt sympathy is sent your way. Everything you said about Duchess reflects how much you are a cat lover ...especially that cat. She crossed over the "rainbow bridge" and frolicking about chasing butterflies. Y'all are dear to me but you know that. Special people. And Duchess knew that, too. Priscilla Perry

“ We loved and will miss our favorite FH kitty coming to meet us. She was always fast to come and make sure her food bowl was full. I loved watching her drink out of the bird bath. She was the best and it will be hard not having her around. RIP sweet angel. Love Kim and Garry
