“ Danny, was one of my very best friends, I had the most respect for him, if he thought that I wasn't doing things right he made sure to tell me about it. And let say not in such a nice voice, he made sure he was deep and Stern when he voice his thoughts. But that's one of the things that I truly admire of him cuz if he didn't care he wouldn't of been that way. He came up to the house two weekends before God called him home, to spend a little time w me, I am so grateful for this time w him, I always would tell him I loved him every time he left to head home, but this time I gave him a big hug and he kissed me on the head and we both said bye n we love each other, I hold this so dear in my heart, Danny and I spoke a lot about some very emotional things, I would love share Danny, always spoke of his two boys how proud he was of them and how they have grown into men. He spoke w so much love when he talked about his grand sons they had his heart every minute that he got to spend w them it filled him w so much joy. He spoke for days of what all he and his grandsons did, I know when he would babysit them he would call me and talk n talk about that forever I would say you have told me this already but that didn't matter and that's what he told me I was gonna hear it again, and I did. Danny had such a big heart, and wanted to help everyone, I surely miss him but I know he is w the Good Lord and is at peace. Danny you mean the world to issy. (Or what you called her Eppy) but we both love you very much and will see you again

“ I met Danny just 6 short months ago when my husband and I moved in across the hall from him. He always had a hello as we passed in the hall, or a wave if we passed on the street. Danny was a wonderful person and human being. He will be missed by many. My deepest condolences to the family.

Danny...Was a dear and wonderful FRIEND and person. He moved to Desoto County, to be closer to his BOYS and grandsons. He was very PROUD and LOVED his sons, more than they will ever realize. And his grandsons...❤️...His passing really saddens me. Danny...My friend, I know your at peace now...And not alone anymore. But, always know...you also and ALWAYS had friends that loved and cared about you!❤️ YOU WILL BE TRULY MISSED!

“ This man was truly an awesome mechanic. Told me what to buy and how long it would take to fix it. Could have charged me whatever he wanted but, told me I owed him nothing but, gave him what I could. So sorry for your loss Bobby and John and rest of family. We love y'all and are praying for peace and comfort.
